Hon. S. S. Cox has our thanks for valu able Congressional favors.

The Fifth of January.

This momentous date is near at hand. The holidays will come and go and then will come the time for a draft according to the President's last call for three hundred thousand men. There is of course an anxious inquiry among the people of all classes and of all shades of political opinion, whether the Government will really enforce the draft rumors, says a New York paper, in circulation purporting to come from those who hand, that the Government will positively put the draft in operation for the unfilled balance of the quota; and, on the other hand, that the time will be extended for a month or two, if any reasonable prospect is afforded of raising volunteers. It would thus appear that those States and districts only have any positive assurance of escaping a draft on the 5th of January, whose quotas shall be filled by that time.

The Court of Claims.

This Court has been lately reorganized and is now in session at Washington. By the class referred to. an act of Congress of March last, the number of Judges was increased to five, of whom one, Hon. JOSEPH CASEY, of Pennsylvania, has been appointed by the President Chief Justice. The other Judges are Hugnes, of Indiana; Loring, of Massachusetts; WilMort, of Pennsylvania; and Peck, of Illinois.

More are not allowed to the bedies they were deputed to represent, was an unobjectionable one; that no where had there been any secrecy sought no where had there been any secrecy sought or practice in this Court.

The Potomac Army---Gen. McClel-lan's Policy.

We think in not inopportune to publish the following letter from Gen. McClellan to Gen. HALLECK, dated August 4, 1862 .-Had his protest been regarded at that time have been in our possession more than a year ago, and thus the whole face of things changed. But fanaticism ruled the hour, and McClellan did not suit the mad fanatics, and hence he must be deposed, though by so doing thousands of lives and hundreds of preference of certain candidacies for the of millions of money should be lost. Mc-CLELLAN was deposed, and what has since occurred fully demonstrates the wickedness

BERKLEY, Va., Aug. 4, 12 M.

Major-General Halleck, Commander-ty-Chief: Your telegram of last evening is received. I must confess it caused me the greatest pain I ever experienced, for I am convinced that the order to withdraw this army to Acquia Creek will prove disastrous in the extreme to our cause. I fear it will be a fatal blow. Several days are necessary to complete the preparations for so important a movement as this, and while they are in progress, I beg that careful consideration may be given to my statement. This army old school, bent upon using those they do or pretended to, represent for the pront we hold a debouch on both banks of the tion, not of patriotic, but personal ends. not likely to meet the enemy in force sufficient to fight a battle until we have marchest line of land transportation would be from this point 25 miles, but by the aid of the gunboats we can supply the army by water, during its advance, certainly to within 12 miles of Richmond. At Acquia Creek, we would be 75 miles from Rich-mond, with land transportation all the way. From here to Fortress Monroe is a march of 70 miles, for I regard it as impracticable to withdraw this army and its material except by land. The result of the movement would thus be to march 145 miles to reach a point now only 25 miles distant, and to deprive ourselves entirely of the powerful aid of the gunboats and water transportation.— Add to this the certain demoralization of this army which would ensue, the terribly this army which would ensue, the terribly depressing effect upon the people of the North, and the strong probability that it would influence foreign powers to recognize our adversaries; and these appear to me sufficient to make it my imperative duty to urge, in the strongest terms afforded by our language, that this order be rescinded, and that far from recalling this army it may be promptly reinforced to enable it to resume the offensive.

It may be said that there are no reinforcements available. I point to Gen. Burnside's

It may be said that there are no reinforcements available. I point to Gen. Burnside's forces, to those of Gen. Pope, not necessary to maintain a strict defense in front of Washington and Harper's Ferry; to those portions of the Army of the West not required for a strict defense there. Here, directly in front of this army is the heart of the rebellion. It is here that all our resources should be collected to strike the blow which will determine the fate of this nation. All points of secondary importance elsewhere should be abandoned, and every available man brought here. A decided victory here and the military strength of the rebellion is crushed. It matters not what partial reverses we may meet with elsepartial reverses we may meet with else-where; here is the true defense of Washing-ton; it is here on the banks of the James river that the fate of the Union should be decided.

clear in my conviction of right, strong in the consciousness that I have ever been, and still am actuated solely by love of my country, knowing that no ambitious or selfish motives have influenced me from the commencement of the war, I do now what I never did in my life before. I entreat that this order may be rescinded. If my counsel does not prevail, I will with a sad heart obey your order to the utmost of my power, devoting to the movement—one of the utmost delicacy and difficulty—whatever skill I may possess, and may God grant that I am mistaken in my forebodings. I shall at least have the internal satisfaction that I have written and spoken frankly, and have sought to do the best in my power to arrest disaster from my country.

Because of the light of the least in my power to arrest disaster from my country.

THE New York Times, an Administra tion organ, says that "the fact that the Administration has settled upon a certain antislavery war policy does not bind a patriot to approve it." This is an admission that all sensible and candid supporters of the Lincoln Administration cannot avoid making, and yet thousands of patriotic men have been proscribed, denied the rights of cause they expressed their disapprobation es. Since the raid one hundred and thirtyof the anti-slavery war policy of the Adseven buildings have been put up or are in ministration.

The Democrats in Congress.

There are seventy straight-out Democrats in the House of Representatives and ten Conservative Border State men, making cighty in all, against the Radicals. Yet upon all the divisions which have occurred of a political character the Democratic and Conservative vote has ranged from fifty-eight to sixty-five. Where are the other fifteen or twenty men, who are always absent when their votes are required? It is highly im-portant for its moral effect upon the country that the solid Democratic and Conservative vote should be thrown together in a mass upon all occasions where a test is made. Our friends made a great mistake, in our judgment, in the commencement of the session, in not nominating a candidate for Speaker, and concentrating upon him all their votes. By breaking up and dividing their preferences among a half a dozen men, they exhibited a want of unity and determination that was greatly to be regretted. Much can be accomplished in the House of Representatives in arresting the mad pro-jects of the Radicals, if the Democratic and Conservative members will take care to be if the State quota is not filled. There are present and act in a solid body. Thus far hey have not done so, and, owing to divisions and absence of members, the Demo-cratic interest has exhibited weakness in the ought to know, to the effect, on the one House instead of great strength, which it hand that the Government will positively really possesses, if it was united.—[Cincinnati Enquirer.

We indorse all that is said in the above by the Enquirer, and regret that there was a failure to secure a caucus nomination for Speaker and other officers; and especially so, since we have reason to believe that a concentration was prevented by a very few members, who, finding they could not get things to suit themselves, succeeded in staving off nominations. The spirit of "rule or ruin," which has a mighty hold on a few men in the Democratic ranks, must have an end, or the party must deal summarily with

DURING the latter part of last week, the representatives of a number of those loyal political organizations in various States, started last summer, and known as "Union Leagues," met in convention in this city. Considering that the political end arrived either as to their mode of organization or means of loyal agitation, it would be expected that the deliberations would be public. But such was not the case. The delegates met in secret conclave, and hence the exact nature of their doings has not fully transpired. Enough has, however, become known to give rise to the suspicion that, if one of the objects of the Convention was consultation and exchange of experience, with a view to the extension and perfection and his suggestions heeded, Richmond would of the organization, there was also another, of an entirely different character, and that was President making. Whether the latter, thankless, dangerous labor was the choice of the greater portion of the meeting. or thrust upon it by a few designing work-ers in behalf of particular interests, it is certain that something like an expression next Presidency was elicited. Without entering upon the question of the merits of those, in favor of whom, as standard-bear-ers for the campaign of '64, the majority of the Convention seemed to be inclined, I will simply say that, in my opinion, and that of many of the best and wisest men now here, t was both imprudent and presumptive to neddle with the matter of the succession to the Presidency at the present time, and to try to identify the Union Leagues with the personal political fortunes of certain men. That for this part of the business transacted, the delegates had any authority from their constituents, is hardly possible. gether, the assemblage has placed itself very much in the light of the council of the scheming, selfish, political engineers of the old school, bent upon using those they did, or pretended to, represent for the promo-

Our largest line of land transportation would be tion, if not disorganization, in the ranks of the dominant party. Political organizations are all well, indeed indispensable; but to be successful and maintain the confidence of the people, they must be conducted on open and honest principles. Democrats should organize associations all over the country; but their organizations should deal openly and fairly in all things, and thus give force and effect to their principles. Let the Abolition party have all the dishonor of secret societies.

The Vote on Tabling Fernando Wood's "Peace" Resolution.

Some of our cotemporaries misread the vote on Fernando Wood's "peace" resolution. The fifty-nine members of Congress who voted against tabling, did not thereby vote for the resolution. Most of them would not have voted for it in the shape in which it was introduced.

Newspaper Men in Washington.

AGATE, the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writes: The star of newspaper men is in the asrendant at the Capital. The Speaker is a newspaper man. The Clerk of the House, Mr. McPherson, is a newspaper man, who, like Mr. Colfax, worked his way up from the case. And everybody knows that the Secretary of the Senate is a newspaper man, and the fortunate owner of two profitable daily papers. Agare has himself just received the appointment of Librarian to Congress. The position has a good salary but not much work. Agate (Whitelaw Reid) was formerly a schoolmaster in Clarke county, Ohio.

HENRY WARD BEECHER said at a recent Abolition pow-wow in Philadelphia: "All the signs of the times indicate that God is now in earnest, and determined to emancipate the slaves." A Western editor is forced to the conclusion that Mr. BEECHER's deity had previously, like Old ABE, been addicted to joking on the subject.

GENERAL JOHN BUFORD, of Kentucky, died in Washington, on the 16th inst., after an illness of four weeks contracted in his recent arduous service in the Army of the Potomac. His commission as Major-General of volunteers was placed in his hands on the 16th, just before he died.

The Proposed Amendment to the Enrollment Act.

(From the Regular Correspondent of the Evening

Washington, December 13, 1863. The disposition to amend the Conscription Act increases every day in Congressional circles, and it is now very certain that the division of those persons liable to the draft into classes will be abolished. The January draft, whenever it is made, will include all persons between twenty and forty five persons between twenty and forty-five without a doubt. The action of State Leg-islatures in offering high bounties will com-pel Congress to abolish the three hundred dollar commutation clause or increase i

The bounties affixed in the free States will average six hundred dollars, so that it is no longer in the power of the Govern-ment to obtain a substitute for three hundred dollars. If the premium is of any effect it should be raised. It has been proposed that the sum should be doubled, makng it six hundred dollars, the Government for that sum giving the drafted person exemption for three years, and endeavoring to obtain its own substitutes; but there are politicians who will make a fierce outcry against anything of the sort.

THE whole number of National Banks or ganized under the National Bank act to December 12 inclusive, was one hundred and nity-three, with an aggregate capital of $17,544,700.
